PUBLISHERS NOTE

DIALOGUE

Dear H.M.

[illegible] Metal Books. I can thank your magazine for keeping me first from the shackles of socialism and christianity and I wish you well in this world as in the next. You have been both liberator and liberty. Few in this time have had the courage to offer anything but trips.

Never, ever give it up, for Heavy Metal Magazine IS one of the last bastions of passion that exist this earth. In an age of self-righteous moralizers in need of a cause for which to live and pillage, Heavy Metal has managed to [illegible] the last generation to have its claw marks grazing in blood upon the backs of an ignorant and blissfully unsuspecting America. I salute you, gentlemen. I salute you. You have fought the good fight, and though winning may not have been an option, you have certainly survived. And that, to date as well as many other counts, is the battle.

Although various matters await myself and the countrymen, there would be nothing worth fighting over should the beauty that is your magazine pass from the light of the world. You represent creativity, freedom, and wit. And once again, I salute you.

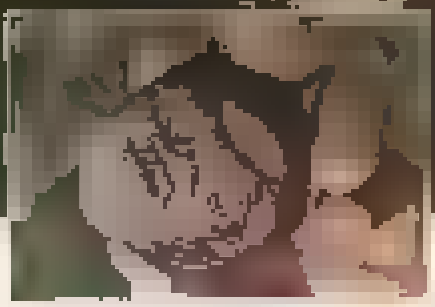
Policing Paka

Why the Federation has Declared a Colonial Imperative on Tlatla Retail



The oddly marked lump of material (above) and the red tablet (detail, right) are refined Paka, a mild stimulant used extensively by the inhabitants of Tlatla Retail. But it was by humans colonial "Sterling Federal Intervention" credentials that created the greatest medical and political problem encountered the Federation in its 500 year history.
